Susan Thompson Named Cambridge Who's Who Executive of the Year in Non-Profit Foundations

Cambridge Who's Who has nominated Susan Thompson, president and founder of The North American Andy Transplant Foundation, Inc. as Executive of the Year.

Morrisville, NC (PRWeb via PRWebDirect)

September 20, 2007 -- Cambridge Who's Who has nominated Susan Thompson, president and founder of The North American Andy Transplant Foundation, Inc. as Executive of the Year. Cambridge Who's Who is proud to honor Susan for her commitment toward raising funding for medical science so that our nation's healthcare system can better save lives. After one year, Susan will retire into the Cambridge Who's Who Hall of Fame program.

The North American Andy Transplant Foundation, Inc. is currently working to change our health system with a campaign promotion from SunTrust Bank and with the support of Cambridge Who's Who, a worldwide networking forum dedicated to providing its members with the highest quality networking resource for job recruitment, career enhancement and new business development. SunTrust will donate $100 to the foundation each time a new personal or business checking account is opened.

It's as simple as 1-2-3! Here are the easy steps. 1. Open a new SunTrust Personal or Business Checking Account from August 06 - Oct. 12, 2007 2. Make a purchase with your Visa check card by Nov. 15th, 2007. 3. Submit your redemption form and SunTrust will donate $100 to our foundation.

"We are dedicated to saving lives," said president and founder Susan Thompson. "We believe in possibilities and the power of our medical system to make transplants happen. However, it is not until you face a life threatening situation that you become aware of the life-giving power you may hold in your hands. Our health system needs to be changed to better help the countless individuals who are in need of organ transplants."

Every sixteen minutes, a new individual joins the organ transplant registry. This means that more than 64,000 people in the United States alone are awaiting an organ. Health insurance does not always cover all of the expenses involved in an organ transplant procedure and unexpected costs can add up for a family. Organs can cost over $300,000. The North American Andy Transplant Foundation is prepared to make contributions to medical science to change our health system.

Aaron Wilson of Hempstead, N.Y. Receives the Cambridge Who's Who Future Leaders Award

Cambridge Who's Who Among Executives, Professionals and Entrepreneurs is pleased to announce that Aaron Wilson of Hempstead, N.Y. is the recipient of the Cambridge Who's Who Future Leaders Award.

Uniondale, N.Y. (PRWeb via PRWeb) July 13, 2007 -- Cambridge Who's Who Among Executives, Professionals and Entrepreneurs is pleased to announce that Aaron Wilson of Hempstead, N.Y. is the recipient of the Cambridge Who's Who Future Leaders Award, which includes a $1,000 scholarship. The award was presented to Wilson at Uniondale High School's Senior Awards Ceremony on May 24, 2007.

Cambridge Who's Who issued a call for essays to the senior class of several high schools on Long Island, where the company is headquartered. Students were asked to define leadership, identify people who epitomize leadership and describe leadership qualities that they exhibit. The 250,000 members of Cambridge Who's Who have demonstrated leadership and achievement in their industry and occupation, so it is fitting that Cambridge would honor high school seniors who show promise as leaders of their generation.

While many student essays were impressive, Wilson's stood out to the Cambridge Who's Who Scholarship Committee. Wilson highlighted Oprah Winfrey's charitable acts as evidence that people from humble beginnings can become leaders, and cited persistence, honesty and intelligence as the key attributes of a leader. Above all, he listed unselfishness as the mark of leadership.

Wilson himself displays several leadership qualities. Among other activities, he chaired the Future Business Leaders of America fundraising committee and served as vice president of the Literary Arts Club. He is an accomplished cellist, composer, and section leader in the school orchestra, and has performed with the New York Virtuosi Chamber Symphony. He is also a member of the National Honor Society and has served as a peer tutor in Spanish, the social sciences and mathematics.

Wilson, who was also recognized in the Who's Who Among American High School Students, says his career goal is to become a marketing executive. As an honorary member of Cambridge Who's Who, he will be featured in the honors edition of the Cambridge Who's Who Registry and will have access to a robust network of business professionals.

As Wilson says, "Leaders are influential people who stand out in a crowd." By that definition, Aaron Wilson is indeed a fitting recipient of the Cambridge Who's Who Future Leaders Award.

Cambridge Who's Who Announces the Lifetime Membership Richard E. Rowley, Planning Branch Chief for FEMA

Richard E. Rowley, planning branch chief for the Federal Emergency Management Agency, has been named a lifetime member of Cambridge Who's Who for his work with FEMA, an agency of the United States Department of Homeland Security that coordinates the response to disasters which overwhelm the resources of local and state authorities.

Washington, DC. (PRWeb via PRWeb) June 15, 2007 -- Richard E. Rowley, planning branch chief for the Federal Emergency Management Agency, has been named a lifetime member of Cambridge Who's Who for his work with FEMA, an agency of the United States Department of Homeland Security that coordinates the response to disasters which overwhelm the resources of local and state authorities. Inclusion in Cambridge Who's Who Registry is an accomplishment in itself and recognition as an accomplished professional is a rare opportunity. Cambridge Who's Who is committed to providing professional networking services and recognizing the achievements of professionals worldwide.

Rowley, an authority on dealing with disabilities and ensuring that critical information is disseminated to the proper people, received an associate of arts in science from Montgomery County Community College in 2006. A former local disaster assistance employee for FEMA, Rowley praised U.S. Representative Allyson Y. Schwartz, who represents the 13th Congressional District of Pennsylvania, after she proposed the Disaster Assistance Employment and Reemployment Rights Act legislation. Rowley said, "It is critical for the United States to have a system of well-trained, well-qualified individuals ready and able to assist in the event of disaster, whether it's natural or man-made. Congresswoman Schwartz is leading an important step forward to make certain that Disaster Assistance Employees are covered with reemployment protections."

FEMA's Mission

The prime mission of FEMA is to lessen the loss of life and property and protect the country from natural disasters, terrorism and man-made disasters by directing and sustaining the United States in a wide-ranging emergency management system of preparedness, protection, response and recovery.

Recent News about FEMA

FEMA held a National Conference on Community Preparedness entitled 'Partnerships and Collaboration through Citizen Corps' on June 11, 2007. David Paulison, Administrator for the Federal Emergency Management Agency spoke. He and the agency are urging the public to become part of local planning, training and exercising so that they will know what to do when a real emergency occurs.

For more information on volunteering with an agency involved in disaster response and recovery, visit the National Voluntary Organizations Active in Disaster, Citizen Corps and the Red Cross.

Protecting Yourself and Loved Ones During a Disaster

Being prepared is critical. You should be ready to take personal action even before a storm is forecast. FEMA strongly advises that the public has enough provisions for at least 72 hours after a storm strikes. The most important supplies to have on hand include food, water and a battery-powered radio. In the event that you are asked to evacuate, be sure to bring copies of important papers including checkbooks, driver's licenses, credit card information, birth certificates, social security cards and other forms and documents to establish ownership and identity. You should also be aware of local evacuation routes and the locations of nearby shelters. And, be sure to set up a plan for communicating with loved ones during and after the emergency. For further information on disaster preparedness, visit <http://www.ready.gov> or <http://www.floodsmart.gov>.

Dorothy Theresa Dzigurski Named Cambridge Who's Who Professional of the Year in Neurological Linguistics Coaching

Dorothy Theresa Dzigurski, RN, BSN, a neurological linguistics art and health coach of Art and Health Coaching has been named Cambridge Who's Who Professional of the Year.

Mountain View, CA (PRWeb via PRWeb) June 6, 2007 -- Cambridge Who's Who names Dorothy Theresa Dzigurski, RN, BSN, a neurological linguistics art and health coach of Art and Health Coaching Professional of the Year in neurological linguistics coaching. While inclusion in Cambridge Who's Who Registry is an honor, only one member in each discipline is named the Cambridge Who's Who Professional of the Year. The Cambridge Who's Who selection committee hand picks these special Who's Who honorees based on their accomplishments, academic achievement, leadership and service.

Dorothy Dzigurski was born in Grand Junction, Colorado. She trained in art through various courses while living and studying in Honolulu, Hawaii at the University of Hawaii before entering St. Mary's College of Nursing, San Francisco, California, and graduated in 1959. In 1962, she enrolled at Washington University in St Louis, Missouri and continued to take electives in art while working on a nursing degree.

Pursuing her nursing career, she always had a great love for art and for nature. She moved to Boulder, Colorado where she again enrolled in art classes at the University of Colorado where she graduated in 1966, with a Bachelor of Science degree.

"In the mid 1960's while working as a nurse, she encountered a patient with a broken painting arm, Alexander Dzigurski. Dorothy was instrumental in Alexander's recovery and a great friendship, romance and marriage followed. In 1968 she married Alexander Dzigurski, famous for his unique and colorful seascapes, one of his larger canvases, called 'From Sea to Shining Sea,' hangs in the Franklin Mint Museum. It was painted in 1976 in honor of the nation's Bicentennial, when the Franklin Mint Gallery of American Art commissioned him 'as America's finest painter of the sea.'" Together they had traveled extensively throughout the contiguous United States and beyond to Europe, Canada, and Hawaii. In short order, the happy couple had a son, born with oil paints flowing through his veins.

In 1973, for three and one half months, Dorothy, alongside her husband and son, sketched and painted in the Swiss Alps, France, Italy, Yugoslavia and Spain.

Today, Alex Dzigurski II is a fine artist in his own right, in part a testament to Dorothy's love of art and her devotion to her artist husband and to her artist son. Today, grandmother and matriarch, one of her great joys is brushing away at her easel.

Dzigurski with 40 years of professional nursing experience and has been a certified neurological linguistics coach for nine years. In this role, she uses her skills as a nurse and painter to coach those who have difficulty with the processes of speaking, listening, reading, writing and using sign language. Dorothy's artwork is exhibited in Northern California at the Simic Gallery in Carmel, California.

Forté's book, Parting the Mist, tells the story of her personal experience of loss through poems and paintings. While listening to the whispers from deep within, Forté guides you through the mist-shrouded labyrinth of our innermost feelings. The combination of poetry and art in her book is the mode of expression that best reflects her inner-self's transition. The paintings she has created depict a soul's special connection with the heart. While going through the six phases of human feelings that follow loss, Forté's emotions spill out as did the paint upon her canvas.

"The combination of poetry and art in this book is the mode of expression that best reflects my inner-self's transition. I am so grateful that I have been able to express myself in words and on canvas. These have been incredible tools for my own healing." Patti Forté

"Patti has such a pure heart, the poems and art flow from her, showing her strength and ability to move on in spite of some of life's most challenging experiences. Her pain turns to peace and her fears to quietness. The rhythm of her poems echoes memories of her experiences. I marvel at how far she has journeyed never to return to her former self. She has pushed past the ordinary. Once in a while, special people come into your life to teach, to inspire, and to love. Patti has done all this for me." Ranae Johnson, Ph.D.

"This is a personal journey of an ordinary woman who discovers her own beauty and self worth through pain of loss. Like a quiet, intimate conversation, she shares her deepest struggle with a vulnerability that is unadorned but powerful." Shirley Nice, author Speaking For Impact

"Seven years P.O.W. in communist prison, much in solitary--greatest gift, self discovery. Patti Forté and I, childhood friends--different prisons, same journey, same gift. Amazing!" Captain Gerald Coffee, U.S. Navy Retired speaker and author

"Patti shares with us the richness and the rage, the pain and the peace of her own journey, and we are each lifted in our own parting of the mist." Dixie Waldrip, author Hide and Seek: Searching for Me

Forté is also an extremely talented painter, screenwriter and lyricist. Currently, she is collaborating with other writers in the creation of a screenplay focused on the empowerment of women. She is also a former elementary school teacher. After raising her two children, Forté expanded her education with alternative health training and became an advanced healing practitioner.

Forté received her Bachelors Degree in Elementary Education from San Jose State University. She is a member of the International Poetry Society and the American Business Women's Association. She is also a founding Laureate Member of the International Society of Poets. Her poem, "The Glowing Surface" appeared in Poetry's Elite-The Best Poets of 2000, Poetry.com, and "The Shapeless Shoe" appeared in Reflections of the Soul by The Poetry Guild.
