Beaver Insurance Agency Launches Community Involvement Program in Partnership with Fiorenza’s Food for Friends to Feed Those in Need

Beaver Insurance Agency is pleased to announce the commencement of a master charity program in the Thorndale/Exton, PA area, and invites support from the agency’s network of professional partners and clients in benefitting the local community with a new charity initiative every six months. The inaugural campaign partners with Fiorenza’s Food for Friends, a nonprofit organization which works to provide innovative resources for those experiencing food insecurity and hunger in the community.

Thorndale, PA (PRWEB) September 18, 2017 -- Beaver Insurance Agency of Thorndale and Exton, PA has announced the initiation of a master charity program created to strengthen the communities they serve. The agency pledges to select a new beneficiary every six months, working closely with nonprofit organizations and community leaders to seek out those who most need help. Their wish is to bring awareness to important local causes by forming campaigns which aid worthwhile organizations, families and individuals.

To debut the new community involvement program, Beaver Insurance Agency has elected to support Fiorenza’s Food for Friends (F4). F4 educates communities about food insecurity and undertakes an innovative process to help eradicate hunger. Through perishable food recovery processes, they connect with local restaurants, caterers, hospitals, etc. to repurpose excess food to homeless shelters and people in need. F4 also collaborates with local volunteers, companies and community groups to facilitate food drives for food banks and pantries who feed the hungry, establishing partnerships to help facilitate their vision of creating a world without hunger.

“We’re passionate about activating local support for the beneficiaries of our Community Program,” said Larry Beaver, owner of Beaver Insurance Agency, “and are honored to be helping F4 and all those they serve with our very first fundraiser. Eliminating hunger is a worthy goal, and we hope everyone embraces this campaign to feed the hungry in our community.”

The donations page for each initiative will be accompanied by a fully detailed story outlining details of the cause. The caring team at Beaver Insurance will also spread the word through its own network of customers, business associates, neighbors and friends. To join the agency in their efforts to feed the hungry, donors may visit http://beaveragencyinc.com/causes/rallying-food-4-friends/ and are asked to share the page with their own personal and professional networks.

Beaver Insurance Agency also produces a community publication, Our Hometown magazine, which will use a full page to highlight each selected Community Cause. The electronic Flipbook version of the current issue may be enjoyed at http://beaveragencyinc.com/magazines/. To learn more about Fiorenza’s Food for Friends, please visit http://www.f4service.org/.

About Beaver Insurance Agency

A full-service insurance and financial services provider serving families and businesses from offices in Thorndale and Exton, agency owners Larry and Erin Beaver know many local families. This knowledge and understanding help them to provide customers with an outstanding level of service. Their team of dedicated professionals works diligently to help families protect the things which are most important to them – their families, homes, businesses, cars, etc. They also prepare strategies to help clients achieve long-term financial goals. More information about the agency is available at http://beaveragencyinc.com/. To speak with a caring expert, please call 610-384-5300 (Thorndale) or 610-363-0190 (Exton).
Contact Information
Johana Barrientos
Beaver Insurance Agency
http://beaveragencyinc.com/
+1 (786) 322-4999

Online Web 2.0 Version
You can read the online version of this press release here.