Top Names to Speak at The Integrative Healthcare Symposium

The 15th annual Integrative Healthcare Symposium, a conference for multi-disciplinary healthcare professionals who share a desire to improve patient outcomes through integrative care.

PORTLAND, Maine (PRWEB) November 20, 2018 -- WHAT: The 15th annual Integrative Healthcare Symposium, a conference for multi-disciplinary healthcare professionals who share a desire to improve patient outcomes through integrative care.

During the three-day live event, which includes accredited Continuing Medical Education (CME) sessions, symposia, roundtables, networking and more, attendees will connect with peers, synthesize clinical findings, and ultimately take new insights and approaches back to their practices.

Topics in this year’s program range from nutrition to autoimmunity, environmental toxins, brain disorders, and more. Attendees are also invited to participate in a day-long pre-conference workshop focused on nutrition’s role in stress, inflammation, and overall health.

The event will feature a three-level exhibit hall, with more than 200 companies displaying their newly launched and curated products and services, plus multiple daily movement classes, a speaker and networking lounge, poster sessions, live interviews by IntegrativePractitioner.com and much more.

WHO: 1,000+ multi-disciplinary medical practitioners from MDs, DOs and NPs to nutritionists, chiropractors, acupuncturists, and more, plus a speaker roster of 40+ top integrative healthcare influencers including keynote Valter Longo, PhD, special guest Josh Axe DNM, DC, CNS, and Mark Hyman, MD, among others.
