Nike Volleyball Camps Offer New Winter, Spring, and Summer Camps at Lewis and Clark College

Nike Volleyball Camps, a division of US Sports Camps, just announced the addition of new winter volleyball camps, spring volleyball camps and summer volleyball camps in Portland, Oregon.

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (PRWEB) November 23, 2018 -- This top-rated Nike Volleyball Camp at Lewis and Clark College will bring nine new camps and clinics for players to choose from.

Due to high demand during summer 2018, Head Coach Emily Hayes, added multiple sessions for 2019 to accommodate more players. In addition to the popular summer co-ed volleyball camps, the winter and spring volleyball camps in Oregon will allow players extra opportunities to improve during the year.

“We’re excited to bring our campers these new offerings during the winter and spring, so that they can work on their skills all year long,” said Siera Love, VP of Nike Volleyball Camps. “Given the popularity of the summer camps, we know kids are looking for more ways to get better, and Coach Hayes has lined up so many terrific programs to cater to their desire for improvement.”

For winter 2018, three 1-day clinics and 2 multi-day camps are available for girls and boys, ages 9-17. The 2019 spring camp is 3-days long and geared towards advanced volleyball players. Finally, the 2019 summer volleyball camps lineup includes a variety of programs for beginner through advanced players, plus a special serving clinic.

Rhonda W., a parent of a 2018 summer camper, had nothing but positive things to say about the camps. “This was by far her favorite summer volleyball camp experience! Both of us were very impressed with the well-trained, friendly staff,” Rhonda explained. “My daughter learned new techniques she hadn't tried before and came away with new confidence in her abilities.”
