NAPCO (North American Polymer Company) Increases Number of Trained Kitchen & Bath Refinishers by 50% in 2018, Remains Dedicated to Refinisher Training & Safety This Year

NAPCO, Ltd. (North American Polymer Company), a national coating manufacturer and leading refinishing training company, is proud to announce that 2018 marked a record-setting year for the company’s highly-regarded refinishing training program. The expansion of NAPCO’s refinisher training course led to an increase in annual enrollment from 80 to 170 refinishers, more than double the number of successfully trained, certified refinishing professionals from the previous year.

SKOKIE, Ill. (PRWEB) January 24, 2019 -- NAPCO, Ltd. (North American Polymer Company), a national coating manufacturer and leading refinishing training company, is proud to announce that 2018 marked a record-setting year for the company’s highly-regarded refinishing training program. The expansion of NAPCO’s refinisher training course led to an increase in annual enrollment from 80 to 170 refinishers, more than double the number of successfully trained, certified refinishing professionals from the previous year. The course was expanded to a three-day program, with one full-day dedicated to kitchen cabinet and countertop refinishing.

“Educating refinishers with the proper techniques and safety protocols by providing intense, hands-on training, is a critical service that we provide to the growing refinishing market,” said Dani Nichols, President of NAPCO. “We are constantly looking for ways to help our refinishers increase their earning capacity. Adding kitchen refinishing to our training program not only increases refinishers’ skill sets, but it also increases their ability to land more jobs,” she added.

NAPCO creates high-quality refinishing products for the bathroom and kitchen. The three-day refinishing course instructs attendees on all aspects of the industry, including practical application of the refinishing products, how to handle issues that may arise on the job, and best practices for running a small refinishing business. Providing refinishers with professional training is an important step in ensuring that products are applied with expert precision.

The 2019 training program will be held monthly at NAPCO’s headquarters at 7315 Hamlin Avenue in Skokie, Illinois, which is just a few miles north of Chicago. Class size is limited to ensure personal attention for each participant. Discounts are available for companies bringing more than one trainee. Classes are expected to sell out. Register in advance by visiting napcoltd.com or call for reservations 800-888-1081.
