The class action lawsuit alleges Joe & The Juice New York, LLC, and Joint Employer Joe & The Juice US Holdings, failed to pay their employees the correct amount of overtime wages and further alleges that the companies failed to provide meal and rest breaks to their employees.

SAN FRANCISCO (PRWEB) January 30, 2019 -- The San Francisco labor law attorneys at Blumenthal Nordrehaug Bhowmik De Blouw LLP, filed a class action lawsuit against Joe & The Juice New York, LLC, and Joe & The Juice US Holdings, alleging that the companies fail to correctly pay their employee's the correct amount of overtime compensation. Furthermore, the complaint alleges that Joe & The Juice fails to provide mandatory meal and rest breaks to their employees. The Joe & The Juice lawsuit, Case No. CGC-19-573045, is currently pending in the San Francisco County Superior Court for the State of California. A copy of the complaint can be accessed by clicking here.

The class action complaint alleges that Joe & The Juice, failed to accurately pay PLAINTEIFF and other members of the CALIFORNIA LABOR SUB-CLASS overtime wages for the time they worked which was in excess of the maximum hours permissible by law as required by Cal. Lab. Code §§ 510, 1194 & 1198. Cal. Lab. Code § 510 further provides that employees in California shall not be employed more than eight (8) hours per workday and/or more than forty (40) hours per workweek unless they receive additional compensation beyond their regular wages in amounts specified by law.

According to the class action complaint, the companies non-exempt employees were also allegedly unable to take off duty meal breaks due to their rigorous work schedules. California labor laws require an employer to provide an employee required to perform work for more than five (5) hours during a shift with, a thirty (30) minute uninterrupted meal break prior to the end of the employee's fifth (5th) hour of work. The complaint alleges that the company did not provide their employees who forfeited meal breaks additional compensation.
