PASO ROBLES, Calif. (PRWEB) April 12, 2019 -- John Donovan, who provides State Farm insurance in Atascadero, said he is very pleased by the rapid response of State Farm Insurance to recent California tragic wildfires. California Insurance Commissioner website reports over $9 billion insured losses from the 2018 fires, including residential, commercial, vehicles and other coverage.

So far, State Farm Insurance has paid more than $1.3 billion for homeowner and auto claims for 2018 wildfires. Dave Jones, the former California Insurance Commissioner said, “The devastating wildfires of 2018 were the deadliest and most destructive wildfire catastrophes in California's history.”

Estimates are that at least $3 billion is needed for clearing debris and damage from the fire that destroyed more than 20,000 structures and took over 80 lives. As wildfires broke out, State Farm began positioning people and equipment in the areas most impacted. Along with a presence on the ground, the insurance company also provided assistance to impacted communities on its website that informed the public about safety and recovery measures, as well as details to help State Farm customers file claims and answering coverage questions.

Thousands of people were forced to evacuate and relocate. Donovan said his State Farm Insurance Atascadero office is available to assist fire victims who have relocated to this area as well as to those who have questions on behalf of State Farm insured family members.

“My team and I value the opportunity to work for people who want to secure their well-being and protect and preserve their assets,” said Donovan. His office focuses on building long-term relationships based on understanding and meeting client needs and by actively supporting the local community through a variety of activities. “Together with my teammates, Sara Holloway, Nikole Strohl, Faith Rice, and Amy Summers, we have more than 35 years of combined insurance experience,” said Donovan.

A Central Coast resident since 1990, Donovan is an active member of the Atascadero Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors, serving as Chairman in 2018; President of the Atascadero Rotary Club from 2012-2013 and has been Chairman of the Rotary Club’s Scholarship Committee since 2016. He is a founding member of the SLO County Bicycle Coalition, a youth basketball coach, and for fun, Donovan is an Abraham Lincoln impersonator.

Donovan and the State Farm team in the Atascadero insurance office are ready to answer questions about home or business insurance, vehicle, life, property insurance or any other insurance or investment need.
