Ivey, Barnum & O’Mara, LLC Shares in Learning, Leading and Lifting

GREENWICH, Conn. (PRWEB) April 29, 2019 -- G.O.O.D. for Girls is a community-based mentoring, asset, and leadership development program for girls age 9-18 in Westchester County and surrounding areas. Chavonne Collins, a G.O.O.D. for Girls board of directors member and employee at Ivey, Barnum & O’Mara, LLC, introduced the opportunity to members of the firm.

The event at Pace University’s Pleasantville campus hosted a crowd of 100-150 girls exploring career paths with a focus on underrepresented fields for women, including construction, law enforcement, engineering, and cybersecurity. The day began with a diverse panel of women representing all career ranks, from students to top-level executives. Following the panel, participants networked their way through a career expo, learning about potential courses of study to drive their future.

Ivey, Barnum & O’Mara, LLC maintained a strong presence throughout the day, as attorneys Andrea Sisca and Jessica Signor represented women in the field of law, discussing their experiences in the areas of litigation and estate planning. In addition, fellow staff members set up shop as expo presenters in the areas of human resource management and paralegal studies. Others presented in break-out sessions and volunteered as event management staff.

Ivey, Barnum & O’Mara, LLC is proud to cultivate an internal culture of community and giving. Through volunteerism, we encourage the spread of those values among surrounding communities.
