Lawsuit Filed by Blumenthal Nordrehaug Bhowmik De Blouw LLP Against Robert Heath Trucking, Inc., Alleging the Company Violated Meal and Rest Break Labor Laws

The class action complaint alleges that Robert Heath Trucking, Inc., failed to pay proper minimum wages and did not provide the legally required off-duty meal and rest breaks to their employees.

LOS ANGELES (PRWEB) October 09, 2019 -- The Los Angeles Labor law attorneys at Blumenthal Nordrehaug Bhowmik De Blouw LLP, filed a class action lawsuit against Robert Heath Trucking, Inc., alleging that the company failed to lawfully provide meal and rest periods and pay minimum wages to their California employees working for the company. The class action lawsuit against Robert Heath Trucking, Inc., is currently pending in the Los Angeles County Superior Court, Case No. 19STCV30808. To read a copy of the Complaint, please click here.

The lawsuit filed against Robert Heath Trucking, Inc., by labor law attorneys at Blumenthal Nordrehaug Bhowmik De Blouw LLP, alleges the DEFENDANT’S meal period policies and practices were unlawful because PLAINTIFF and other CALIFORNIA CLASS Members were far too over-booked and overworked to take a timely off-duty thirty (30) minute meal period. The lawsuit further alleges that the failure of Robert Heath Trucking, Inc., to provide the legally required meal and rest period is evidenced by the company's business records.

The California Labor Code provides that every employer shall furnish each of his or her employees with an accurate itemized wage statement in writing showing, among other things, gross wages earned and all applicable hourly rates in effect during the pay period and the corresponding amount of time worked at each hourly rate. The complaint alleges, "From time to time, DEFENDANT violated Cal. Lab. Code § 226 by failing to provide wage statements that identified the correct gross wages earned."
