

One of the Most Popular Wedding Months around the Corner, Some Must Learn the Do's and Don'ts of Giving Best Man Speeches

October is second to only June as the most popular month to get married. With October just around the corner, BestManSpeeches.net offers some do's and don'ts when delivering a best man speech.

Chicago, Ill. (Vocus) September 5, 2009 -- The month of October is second only to June as the most popular month to get married. Since October is just around the corner, BestManSpeeches.net offers some do's and don'ts when delivering for gentlemen delivering best man speeches.

First, men should not wait until the last minute to write their best man speech. One month gives plenty of time to gather thoughts and memories so when the time comes, the delivery will be relaxed and comfortable.

When gentleman are thinking about what to write for best man speeches, do keep it personal but do not make it embarrassing. Include personal stories and memories. Do add a joke or tell a humorous story. Funny best man speeches are always a treat.

It is important when delivering a best man speech to take time to say what is needed to say, but do not talk just for the sake of filling up a certain amount of time. Write down the speech on note cards or paper with plenty of time to prepare and practice. This way, the speaker will say everything that is needed without rambling.

Do thank the people who helped make the day possible, especially parents of the bride and groom. Do not forget their names and write them down if needed. Do try to relax before the speech delivery and do not drink too much so that composure is lost.
