The new online episode of The TyMeLyNe Life Reality Show (www.TyMeLyNeLife.com) features the Def Jam label mates Redman and Method Man. Redman does an interview with Dj One IX Tyme on his Danger Room radio show while promoting his 'Red Gone Wild' album. Method Man is featured performing, and crowd surfing to a sellout audience in support of his '4:21 The Morning After' album at Howard's in Bowling Green, Oh.

New York, NY (PRWEB) June 7, 2007 -- In this internet reality based episode, Redman gives an agenda of less than a year for production to start on a new How High 2 movie and Blackout 2 album with Method Man. He explains his disappointment at the production company's development of the rap duos 2004 'Method & Red' television show. But the shining moment is his explanation his new open toed shoe for women, based on his famous foot fetish.

Method Man entices the crowd running through hits like 'Method Man', 'You're All I Need', and 'The Blackout'. All while fearlessly demonstrating a crowd walking technique that is rarely seen, taking crowd surfing to a another level! Method Man a.k.a. Johnny Blaze, also candidly gives his feelings about the music industry critics that have said that he's gone Hollywood, as well as the true meaning of hip hop vs. rap music. The Wu-Tang official holds pulls no punches on his feelings about the way Diddy handled the Notorious B.I.G.'s 'Duets' album.
