

Alert One Services, Inc. Releasing the First Two-way Talking Help Button with 24-hour Monitoring - ClearCall

Alert One Services, Inc. is releasing the first and only two-way talking help button with 24-hour monitoring for senior citizens and the disabled this July. "ClearCall will be the most technologically advanced personal help button available. Unlike similar looking devices that simply place an anonymous call to 911, the ClearCall button will activate the Alert One monitored medical alarm service and connect the user - who may then speak directly - with a highly trained emergency operator any time - day or night. ClearCall can also be used to answer incoming phone calls from anywhere.

Williamsport, PA (PRWEB) June 7, 2007 -- Alert One Services, Inc. (www.alert-1.com) is releasing the first and only two-way talking help button with 24-hour monitoring this July. This new and most advanced personal help button available on the market - called "ClearCall"- is the only true two-way voice button used in the medical alarm industry. Unlike similar looking devices that simply place an anonymous call to 911, the ClearCall button will activate the Alert One monitored medical alarm service and connect the user with a highly trained emergency operator any time - day or night.

"Now your loved ones will be protected 24-hours each day - and have the ability to speak to a highly trained professional without trying to move should an emergency occur - which is priceless," said Eric O'Connor, President of Alert One. "ClearCall's new technology coupled with advanced ease of use is setting a higher standard and revolutionizing the medical alarm industry. ClearCall is small and lightweight with a built-in speaker and microphone with simple one-touch operation that works up to 300 feet from the Alert One medical alarm base unit in a user's home. This allows users to have peace of mind even outside the home while gardening or getting the mail. ClearCall can also be used to answer incoming phone calls from anywhere - press the blue button when your phone rings and speak normally - and when your call is complete - press the blue button once again to disconnect," O'Connor stated.

Millions of caregivers, senior citizens, and the disabled have relied on Alert One products for quality and reliability for more than 20-years as the company is the most respected medical alarm provider in the industry. Many of the elderly, baby boomers and their caregivers will enjoy the water resistant (can be worn in the shower), 900 Mhz ClearCall which can be worn on a neck cord or belt clip for convenience.

"We have spent years developing the most technologically sophisticated yet user-friendly and lightweight medical alarm device available anywhere - and Alert One is proud to bring it to the consumer this July," O'Connor concluded.

The ClearCall medical alert system for the home is $34.95 per month and includes: one personal waterproof help button on either a belt clip or neck cord; 24-hour emergency monitoring; a no-risk - true 30 day trial period; unlimited live-person customer service access; a rate-lock guarantee; a 100% Lifetime Warranty on the entire medical alarm system; and an anytime cancellation policy.
