Rake in Grass, a top developer of downloadable casual game titles, will feature seven of its games during the week of June 18 at GameDuJour.com.

Palo Alto, CA (PRWEB) June 18, 2007 -- Rake in Grass, a top developer of downloadable casual game titles, will feature seven of its games during the week of June 18 at GameDuJour.com. By showcasing and discounting its game titles on the world's first "one deal a day" site for casual PC games, the company aims to increase the exposure of its games to new consumers through a growing new way for marketing video games.

"We are excited about partnering with Game du Jour to showcase our games to the avid casual game players who visit their site each day to nab great games at great prices," says Pavel Tovy Tovyrs, president of Rake in Grass. "Our games are a great fit for the casual gamers that flock to Game du Jour -- games which can be played by children, their parents and anybody who wants to take a break from their busy lives for a while."

Since it was first introduced late last year, Game du Jour has showcased one deeply discounted game per day -- just one bargain game a day. Rake in Grass (<http://www.RakeinGrass.com>) and its affiliate 300AD (<http://www.300AD.com>) are offering many of their most popular titles for Windows PCs during its week on Game du Jour at 50% off the regular price.

Games from Rake in Grass and 300AD that will be featured during this week include:

- Monday, Archmage : An action game set in a fantasy world where you fight and ride a dragon or a unicorn and destroy hordes of evil monsters to rescue the Lake Shire.
- Tuesday, Crystal Cave Gold : Explore dungeons, resolve puzzles of pharaohs, Aztecs and India kings while collecting gems.
- Wednesday, Styateg : The heavy clouds on the horizon gather as there are troubled times to come. The kingdom of a wise king is in danger. Adventure awaits those who hear the calling.
