

Flip That House with Faux: Is Flipping Houses for Profit Still Possible?

The only seminar to reveal interior design secrets to fixing houses helps first time home buyers and investors buy houses for less and sell for more. See slides of fixers before, during and after transformation, including the Fisher's Faux Flip to be featured on The Learning Channel's hit TV show "FlipThat House."

Lake Elsinore, CA (PRWEB) September 7, 2007 -- The only seminar to reveal interior design secrets to fixing houses helps first time home buyers and investors buy houses for less and sell for more. See slides of fixers before, during and after transformation, including the Fisher's Faux Flip to be featured on The Learning Channel's hit TV show Flip That House

Learn how to find, finance, fix and sell houses for profit in any market. See fresh ideas for fixing houses using interior design methods that make houses simply irresistible to buyers.

No matter what the real estate market seems to be doing in Southern California, people still want to learn how to make money flipping houses. Last time Mt San Jacinto College offered "Flipping Houses for Profit: Still Possible in Southern California?" taught by Jeanette Fisher, the class was moved to the auditorium.

On Saturday, September 8, the college course at the Menifee Valley Campus explores the shifting real estate market in Riverside County. Fisher shares her interior design and home staging techniques that helped sell an investment house in Riverside. She said, "We received multiple offers within hours of listing and closed within 21 days."

Dr. Pam Wachholz, of Menifee, California recommends Fisher's course because, as she says, "Professional stagers cost over $2,500. You can take this class for almost nothing and make thousands."

Fisher has sold houses in as little as three hours in bidding wars after applying her Design Psychology methods to attract committed buyers. Betty Williams, a real estate investor from Canyon Lake, California says Fisher is "the ideal instructor to learn from. She has actually done what she is teaching and has been successful at it!"

Course details: Saturday September 8 from 9 AM to 1 PM at Mt San Jacinto College in Menifee *Optional: Materials may be purchased in class. Course # 9220 Room 1013A Fee: 60.00. Registration accepted with the use of MasterCard, Visa, or Discover at: (951) 487-3711.

The same seminar is also available by Teleseminar. Class size limited so each participant gets the same advantage as those taking the college course. More information and free ebook: Flipping Houses

About Jeanette Fisher

Fisher, who has sold over 35 houses attributes her success to using Design Psychology, which appeals to buyers' emotions. Fisher discovered her unique brand of Design Psychology methods when her family renovated a Queen Anne Victorian home in Palatka, Florida. She has researched how people respond to interior design details for over 15 years, enhancing her own successful real estate investment career with research from the University of Florida, Harvard University, and the University of California.

Fisher is the author of university textbooks, Doghouse to Dollhouse for Dollars, Home Staging with Design

Psychology, and other real estate investing books including Flip That House with Faux, to be released September 29. Besides flipping houses, she teaches Design Psychology and real estate investing. She is a frequent TV and radio show guest.

Media Contact

Family Trust Publishing

Ted Blake (951) 678-3369 "

<http://familytrustpublishing.com>

Free Flipping Houses ebook: <http://www.doghousetodollhousefordollars.com>

Flip That House with Faux <http://flipthathousewithfaux.com>

###

Contact Information

Jeanette Fisher

951-678-8780

Jeanette Fisher

Joy to the Home

<http://flipthathousewithfaux.com>

951-678-8780

Online Web 2.0 Version

You can read the online version of this press release here.