

Newly Launched Community Driven System Solves the Back Link Building Problem for Webmasters

Link building has long been one of the major hurdles for webmasters, in their quest to achieve higher SERP's (Search Engine Ranking Positions), being both time consuming and expensive. Backlinksolutions.com, a newly launched service attempts to overcome these misgivings through a set of innovative features.

Cambridge, ON (PRWEB) September 30, 2007 -- With monthly costs ranging from 35 to 55 dollars for a single PR4 or PR5 backlink, the link building market has long been considered as one of the most resource draining activities in this line of work.

BacklinkSolutions.com offers a more effective alternative to the free market by offering more than 100 plus permanent back links from more than 60 unique IP blocks, each with an established PR between 1 and 5 and each with a domain age of at least one year. And this count is growing daily with more Servers, IP's and more high quality sites to build your back links from. Afterwards by using the numerous social bookmarking websites the members will receive an extra boost and the whole processed is finished by forging a community through its members, able to sustain over time a continuous growth of traffic and search engine prominence.

The community aspect of BacklinkSolutions.com is what really makes this service unique. With a limited initial offering of just 300 spots available, members are helped to build relevant links for their websites and through a series of procedures they are also encouraged to give back to the community back links and winning in return access to even more sites.

The masterminds behind this project, Chad Cook and Colin Pike, are both accomplished marketers with an established reputation in the field and have envisioned this service to serve its customers for the years to come. The monthly fee model currently in use, was chosen for its flexibility, the potential for continuous growth and transparency from a member's viewpoint.

Another side of this project is the diversification effort currently ongoing which attempts to build full article sites using multiple CMS platforms for the exclusive use of its members. Initially relying on a network of sites using just about all the major hosts and CMS's known this will ensure over time a growing number of available back links for its members and the potential to build niche websites which would prove considerably more effective to achieve high SERP's.

The most important aspect of this service though is the care given to its sites and its member's sites, in which strict rules are in place and followed. All the content posted in the initial offering and those developed afterwards only contain original text, thus avoiding search engine penalties. No duplicate content or linking to black hat site is allowed. Backlink Solutions is '100% White Hat'...

A new and recent feature of the program is the customer reward system. Members will participate in a new ticket draws every 3 months allowing them to win static back links on all websites available in the service. Also after the members' websites achieve an established PR they will be able to earn money from an all new Pay Per Article Post.

In the coming months Backlink Solutions will launch it's Pay Per Article Post public services where the public will be able to search sites by topic and chose what site they wish to and an article to. More on this later...lots going on over at www.BacklinkSolutions.com so head on over there now and get the full story.
