

Web 2.0 for the Urban Culture Generation

MixYourWorlds.com, the top urban social networking site, unites the urban culture generation through the next wave of web 2.0 community and dating tools.

Toronto, ON (PRWEB) June 3, 2008 -- MixYourWorlds.com(Urban Culture and Community) continues its rapid growth by launching a new suite of web 2.0 community and dating tools aimed at uniting the Urban Culture Generation.

Launched in June 2007, MixYourWorlds.com has quickly become the leading urban community destination. "With over 460,000 registered members, we're quickly setting the tone for what urban social networking and urban dating will be for years to come," MixYourWorlds.com creator Art Harrison said. "Our goal will always be to develop cutting edge community tools that help our members create diverse and lasting friendships."

MixYourWorlds.com today announced the addition of a complete online speed dating system to their existing platform. "Speed Dating is a fantastic and fun way to meet many people in a short period of time," says Harrison. "A successful speed dating environment needs to be easy, welcoming and should also try to match people who share similar values." MixYourWorlds.com's free online speed dating system is the first of its kind to target the truly diverse urban culture generation.

In addition to their urban speed dating tools, MixYourWorlds.com provides a full set of social networking tools to help their members connect and share their voices. The feature rich website boasts web-based instant messaging, forums, blogs, personals, chat rooms and drag-and-drop worlds; free to every user.

"We have such a passionate member base at MixYourWorlds.com," said Harrison. "Our goal is to keep them happy and to keep them coming back. Whether it's our urban speed dating tools or our redesigned site, we're going to continue providing the best urban culture community experience online."
