Lt. Col. Rob "Waldo" Waldman, of Wingman Enterprises, Inspires Businesses with Motivational Seminars as a Keynote Speaker

While Daniel Craig may be thrilling audiences with his daring escapades as James Bond in “Skyfall,” real life hero Lt. Col. Rob “Waldo” Waldman is inspiring audiences of his own with his renowned business Peak Performance Seminars.

Atlanta, GA (PRWEB) November 28, 2012 -- “Skyfall,” the newest blockbuster for the James Bond franchise, broke all previous Bond flick records in its opening weekend! It seems that the public can’t get enough heart stopping, jaw dropping, deeds of bravery. One man who doesn’t need to go into a theatre, but instead into his own memory banks for such experiences, is decorated fighter pilot, businessman, and keynote speaker Lt. Col. Rob “Waldo” Waldman.

Waldo, known in business circles as, “The Wingman”, is now applying the lessons learned during his combat years to inspire a new generation of business leaders through his motivational seminars and keynotes. As one of the most dynamic motivation speakers on stage, Waldo uses these seminars to train and inspire businesses on how to focus on thriving, rather than surviving. Waldo states that, “By creating an environment of mutual support and accountability, you will increase your organization’s ability to attract and service more customers, beat your internal and external competition, and win in the marketplace.”

The Wingman offers two highly rated Peak Performance seminars for clients: “Never Fly Solo!” and "Wingman Leadership.” Both seminars focus on proven strategies that allow businesses to always operate at their peak performance. Visit Your Wingman on the web for Peak Performance seminar information, clips, and powerful testimonials from some of today’s top corporations and keynote speakers.
