London, UK (PRWEB) November 16, 2012 -- New patient feedback and reviews by medical professionals are now available on the Fine Treatment's website. The users of Dr. Allen’s Devices share positive feedback about their effectiveness when treating different chronic health conditions. While the affected organs vary, the underlying treatment principle is the same and works at the capillary level, a common denominator of various chronic diseases. The Thermobalancing therapy enabled by Dr Allen's devices tackles the cause of chronic diseases ensuring its effectiveness in the long term. The users experience symptomatic relief over time. The directors at Oxford Innovation have been attracted by the results of the Thermobalancing therapy and have released testimonials that confirm the benefits of this therapy. An award winning 21st Century Health TV show invited Dr. Simon Allen and Ariana Adjani to share the news about the phenomenal therapeutic devices designed to treat various chronic medical conditions, including BPH and chronic prostatitis, sciatica and back pain, spine and knee problems, kidney stones and coronary heart disease. The TV show has been aired on CNBC, Fox Business Network and Bloomberg.

The age of people treated with Dr. Allen’s Devices ranges from 20 to 92 years old. Younger users are typically affected by sciatica, kidney stones or chronic prostatitis, while the seniors commonly suffer from coronary heart disease, enlarged prostate and degenerative changes in the intervertebral discs of the spine. Patients form a highly diverse and international group: both men and women with different racial and religious backgrounds, living in cold and hot regions, in the East and the West, with varied lifestyles, daily engagements and recreational preferences.

A new patient feedback from Hansruedi, 68, from Switzerland, demonstrates the effectiveness of the Thermobalancing therapy: “Having suffered of BPH and CPPS for almost a year and a half, I bought Dr. Allen’s Device for prostate care about a month ago and I am wearing it all the time. My pains went back from level 6 to level 3 by now, which is wonderful! (Pain scale from 1 to 10). I am still experiencing pains in the lower belly and in the anus region. Cold weather and winds are making it more painful (up to level 4 –5) but in general I feel much better now and I am not thinking all the time of my sickness.”

“Dr. Allen’s therapeutic devices provide a powerful treatment option and allow the users to spend their savings wisely saving on other unnecessary treatments,” says Dr. Allen. “Fine Treatment lists patient feedback and medical reviews of the Thermobalancing therapy helping prospective users to make an informed decision and avoid other unnecessary and unsafe treatment procedures.”
