RAPS Publishes Regulatory Intelligence 101 Book

Regulatory Intelligence 101 is RAPS' new essential guide to the basics of conducting regulatory intelligence, a crucial skill for regulatory professionals working in the pharmaceutical, medical device and biotechnology sectors.

Rockville, MD (PRWEB) September 16, 2014 -- Regulatory intelligence (RI), the act of monitoring and analyzing available regulatory information, has become a crucial skill for regulatory professionals working in the pharmaceutical, medical device and biotechnology sectors. Regulatory Intelligence 101, new from the Regulatory Affairs Professionals Society (RAPS) serves as an essential guide to the basics of conducting regulatory intelligence.

Regulatory Intelligence 101 examines available regulatory intelligence tools, both free and those requiring a subscription, and gives tips on how to gather information. Chapters cover everything from the basic regulatory intelligence toolbox to setting up a regulatory intelligence department within a company.

“This book is the culmination of my 14-year love affair with RI, a field that has allowed my affinity for regulatory and love of the profession to shine through,” writes author Meredith Brown-Tuttle, RAC, in the book’s introduction. “It reflects the contributions to the growth and development of RI through the years, and I am proud to have been part of the process.”

According to RAPS’ 2014 Scope of Practice & Compensation Report for the Regulatory Profession, regulatory intelligence currently represents an average of about 6% of regulatory professionals’ job responsibilities.

Regulatory Intelligence 101 is available from the RAPS Store for $44.95 (US) for RAPS members or $54.95 for nonmembers.

About RAPS
The Regulatory Affairs Professionals Society (RAPS) is the largest global organization of and for those involved with the regulation of healthcare and related products, including medical devices, pharmaceuticals, biologics and nutritional products. Founded in 1976, RAPS helped establish the regulatory profession and continues to actively support the professional and lead the profession as a neutral, non-lobbying nonprofit organization. RAPS offers education and training, professional standards, publications, research, knowledge sharing, networking, career development opportunities and other valuable resources, including Regulatory Affairs Certification (RAC), the only post-academic professional credential to recognize regulatory excellence. RAPS is headquartered in suburban Washington, DC, with offices in Shanghai and Singapore, and chapters and affiliates worldwide. RAPS.org
Contact Information
Zachary Brousseau
Regulatory Affairs Professionals Society (RAPS)
http://www.RAPS.org
+1 (301) 770-2920 Ext: 245

Online Web 2.0 Version
You can read the online version of this press release here.