eCampus.com ALL Access Partners with University of the Ozarks to Save Students up to 50% on Textbooks with Innovative In-Tuition Model

eCampus.com, an industry-leading provider of online course material solutions for colleges and universities, announced today that University of the Ozarks, ranked third Best Regional College of the South by U.S. News & World Report, is the most recent ALL Access partner in a growing list of partner schools.

LEXINGTON, Ky. (PRWEB) April 08, 2019 -- eCampus.com ALL Access was selected as Ozarks' new course materials solution based on their cost-effective model and expansive access to both print and digital content. Beginning in fall 2019, the eCampus.com ALL Access program will provide Ozarks students with 100% of their required course materials at a significantly reduced cost, included in tuition. After students register for their courses, course materials are reserved and individually packaged for each student based on student schedule. Students will then pick up all materials before the first day of class in a convenient on-campus location. By providing course materials ahead of the first day of class, the ALL Access program ensures students are prepared for success while showing them the full cost of education up front.

The ALL Access program is part of the eCampus.com Course Material Solutions suite, which has helped over 200 institutions save more than $350 million on textbooks. The program was expanded in 2017 after the company acquired Rafter assets, further complementing eCampus.com’s existing one-price models for higher education. ALL Access makes it simple and affordable for students to get all the materials they need for their courses with a flat rate price. This reduced fee is factored directly into their tuition, creating a predictable expense and helping students combat the rising cost of textbooks, with savings up to 50%. Equally important, the program helps to increase student success by providing the course materials they need from Day 1. Faculty benefit from a streamlined adoption process that supports a comprehensive variety of content options, including print, digital, and open educational resources (OER).

“We are excited to partner with eCampus to bring digital and print course materials, access to online learning platforms, and open educational resources to our students in the fall,” said Dr. Alyson Gill, Provost for University of the Ozarks. “Students will also have the ability to have course materials delivered as rentals in print or digitally directly to their iPads as part of our Compass initiative. This program not only underscores our commitment to accessibility, it also lowers costs for our students and ensures that they have all of the materials that they need on the first day of class.”

“The ever-increasing cost of course materials demands an alternative approach to ensure students have the course content they need and are prepared for academic success from Day 1,” said Matt Montgomery, President and CEO of eCampus.com. “The eCampus.com ALL Access program is redefining how institutions are combating the frustrations of trying other textbook models and finding they don’t live up to expectations. ALL Access dramatically reduces course material costs for students, includes free shipping, streamlines adoptions for faculty, and ultimately drives academic outcomes. We are thrilled to welcome University of the Ozarks to the ALL Access program and applaud the University for making college affordability a priority for their students.”

More information on the eCampus.com ALL Access program can be found at ecampuscms.com.

About eCampus.com

PRWeb ebooks - Another online visibility tool from PRWeb
eCampus.com is a premier online retailer of textbooks and digital course materials. Consistently exceeding industry standards, eCampus.com’s mission is to provide the easiest, fastest, and most affordable way for K-12 and higher education students to buy, rent, or sell textbooks and digital content. The company launched on July 2, 1999, the birthday of original investor Dave Thomas of Wendy’s. From the beginning, their driving force has been meeting the needs of the customers they serve. Remaining an innovative leader in the course materials industry, eCampus.com serves over 250 colleges and universities through an innovative course material solutions suite, including full-service Virtual Bookstores and the eCampus.com ALL Access program. eCampus.com’s mission enables institutions to increase course material affordability, serving millions of students to date. Through products that simplify the adoption, management and procurement of course materials, eCampus.com propels student success by delivering the right course materials, at the right time, at the right price. Learn more at ecampus.com.

About University of the Ozarks

University of the Ozarks, located in Clarksville, Arkansas, is an accredited university offering 23 majors and 36 minors. True to their Christian heritage, University of the Ozarks prepares students from diverse religious, cultural, educational and economic backgrounds to live life fully. The University is ranked No. 3 in the Best Regional Colleges of the South category by U.S. News & World Report and was also ranked No. 12 in the South in the “Best Value” category by the same publication. Learn more at ozarks.edu.
Contact Information
Tiffaney Lavoie
eCampus.com
http://www.ecampuscms.com
859-514-6885

Online Web 2.0 Version
You can read the online version of this press release here.