Aldon E. Cotton’s Newly Released “Beat Away the Buzzards” is an Essential Tool for Building Faith and Sharpening One’s Reasoning

“Beat Away the Buzzards: An Exciting Episode in the Life of Abraham” from Christian Faith Publishing author Aldon E. Cotton is a captivating tale that speaks to the reality that one may face many challenges in life when striving to walk in obedience to God.

MEADVILLE, Pa. (PRWEB) August 16, 2019 -- “Beat Away the Buzzards: An Exciting Episode in the Life of Abraham”: a compelling tale that focuses on an episode in the life of the Biblical personality who is now known as the Father of Faith. “Beat Away the Buzzards: An Exciting Episode in the Life of Abraham” is the creation of published author Aldon E. Cotton, an instructor at the Christian Bible College of New Orleans and moderator of the Christian Minister Union of New Orleans and Vicinity. His unique personality and outlook in life are due to a childhood experience that resulted in him becoming a double-legged amputee. He is also known for saying, “You may look at me and call me handicap because I don’t have legs, but if you don’t know Jesus Christ as Lord, then you are handicapped.”

Cotton writes, “Oftentimes, our focus is on the struggle we face fighting against temptations; seductive spirits that call us into sinful activity. But it is not until we have a committed and determined attitude toward fulfilling our trust in God that we embrace the great challenges of faith. Beat Away the Buzzards speaks to the reality that we face many challenges when striving to walk in obedience to God.

“As the father of the faithful, Abraham leaves a great inheritance for his children of faith to follow. As the fowls begin to devour the sacrifice he offers in obedience to God. He doesn’t sit by and allow it to happen but begins to fight for his blessing.

“This title of Beat Away the Buzzards has lifted my faith as I face many challenges in life. In 2005, Hurricane Katrina devastated the city of New Orleans, where I have pastored since 1991. Our church building was destroyed, yet the church family is committed to rebuilding and minister to the hearts of people in this community. We have been beating away buzzards of depression, hopeless, discouragement among others, yet we fight on.”

Published by Christian Faith Publishing, Aldon E. Cotton’s new book is a captivating discovery of the spiritual DNA that binds not only to the blessing of Abraham but may even bring one into a similar experience.

This seven-chapter story of the life of Abraham is designed to put one in the place of spiritual balance and phenomenal vigor.
