HearUSA Rolls Out AARP Hearing Care Program Nationwide

The AARP Hearing Care Program from HearUSA is available exclusively to AARP members and is designed to help the millions of Americans age 50 and over who suffer from hearing loss. While 95 percent of Americans with hearing loss could be successfully treated with hearing aids, only about 22 percent (6.35 million) currently use them, according to the Hearing Loss Association of America.

West Palm Beach, FL (PRWEB) May 12, 2010 -- HearUSA, Inc. (NYSE AMEX: EAR), a leader among the nation's hearing care providers, has begun to roll out the AARP Hearing Care program across the country following the successful introduction of the program in nine states.

The AARP Hearing Care Program from HearUSA is available exclusively to AARP members and is designed to help the millions of Americans age 50 and over who suffer from hearing loss. While 95 percent of Americans with hearing loss could be successfully treated with hearing aids, only about 22 percent (6.35 million) currently use them, according to the Hearing Loss Association of America.

The AARP Hearing Care Program from HearUSA gives AARP members access to a nationwide network of credentialed healthcare providers, who can help them manage their condition through rehabilitation and ongoing consultation. Additionally, the program makes available discounts on state-of-the-art hearing aid technology; extended warranties; and battery supplies.

"We are very excited to be able to announce the beginning of the national launch of this program," said Stephen Hansbrough, CEO and chairman of HearUSA. "Only about one in four Americans who could benefit from hearing amplification currently choose to do so. We believe that this program will change that for the better."

The program was introduced on a limited test basis to all HearUSA company-owned hearing care centers and the company's network of affiliated professional hearing care providers in Florida, New Jersey, New York, Massachusetts, Ohio, Michigan, Missouri, North Carolina and Pennsylvania. After a successful pilot offering, the program's expansion into an additional 24 states will be completed by the end of this year.

By the end of 2011, HearUSA expects the program will be available to AARP members in all 50 states and the U.S. territories through a nationwide network of more than 3,500 credentialed hearing care providers.

"As baby boomers age, many will face hearing loss that can be improved simply by using a hearing aid. It is critical, however, that products and services made available to AARP members reflect exceptional quality and value," said David Mathis, senior vice president, Health Products and Services at AARP Services, Inc. "In an independent survey of 268 members during the Hearing Care Program Pilot, all respondents said they were satisfied with the HearUSA program and gave the program a score of 90 percent or higher, so we are pleased that HearUSA will now begin to make it available to AARP members across the country."

Dr. Cindy Beyer, audiologist and HearUSA senior vice president, said, "The AARP Hearing Care Program from HearUSA has been designed to address the concerns and confusion that prevent so many older Americans from receiving proper treatment for their hearing loss."
The Challenges of Hearing Loss
According to the National Institute on Deafness and Other Communication Disorders, there is a strong relationship between age and hearing loss. While hearing impairment is prevalent in 18 percent of American adults 45-64 years old, some 30 percent of adults 65-74 years old and 47 percent of adults 75 years or older suffer from significant hearing loss.

The Hearing Loss Association of America reports:

- 36 million Americans (one in every 10) have hearing loss.
- As baby boomers reach retirement age, this number is expected to rapidly climb and nearly double by 2030.
- The prevalence of hearing loss increases with age, up to one in three people over age 65 with hearing loss. Most hearing loss develops over a period of 25 to 30 years.
- Among seniors, hearing loss is the third most prevalent, but treatable disabling condition, behind arthritis and hypertension.
- While the vast majority of Americans (95 percent) with hearing loss could be successfully treated with hearing aids, only 22 percent (6.35 million) currently use them. Only five percent of hearing loss in adults can be improved through medical or surgical treatment.

"Beyond the statistics, it's important to recognize the impact of untreated hearing loss on one's quality of life and how proper hearing can improve so many aspects of our daily lives," Beyer said. "Studies show that hearing aids can improve personal income, increase intimacy and warmth in family relationships, encourage social participation, and provide a better sense of control over life events and one's physical health."
