Neil Kadisha of Omninet Capital Hails Phoenix House’s 8th Annual Triumph for Teens Event

Phoenix House works with troubled adolescents providing them with a safe and secure place to regain a sense of purpose

Beverly Hills, CA (PRWEB) May 03, 2011 -- Neil Kadisha, former Qualcomm Director and current Managing Partner of Omninet Capital, LLC, applauded Phoenix House’s successful 8th Annual Triumph for Teens event, which raised funds to support its teen residential treatment centers, family therapy and prevention centers.

The 2011 event honored the cast and producers of ABC’s comedy television series The Middle, motion picture producer, director and writer Chris Weitz, and Phoenix House Founder Mitchell S. Rosenthal.

Neil Kadisha commented, “Every friend, supporter and honoree is treasured, because the organization’s incredible accomplishments wouldn’t be possible without its broad base of supporters. However, no one can match the impact of Mitch Rosenthal, founder of Phoenix House. He is an ultimate visionary and has led the charge for this organization.” Neil Kadisha is a member of the Board of Directors of Phoenix House of California.

For more than 25 years, Phoenix House of California has been working with Southern California’s most troubled adolescents, providing them with a safe and secure place where they can come to understand themselves, regain their sense of purpose and learn to live life to its fullest. Within a community that cares about each other, these youths learn how to care about and help themselves. At Phoenix Academies in Los Angeles, Orange and San Diego Counties, teens are able to make up the educations they lost to drugs, learn new attitudes and values, and come to grips with the underlying causes of their addictions.

About Phoenix House
Recognizing the long-term nature of recovery, Phoenix House offers substance abuse services across a continuum of care, including prevention, early intervention, treatment, continuing care, and recovery support. In addition to it’s own programs, Phoenix House collaborates with partners in the community to offer supplementary services, such as educational classes and support, employment training and placement, medical and mental health services, mentoring, fitness classes, creative writing, theater and music workshops, and more.

About Omninet Capital, LLC
Omninet Capital, LLC is a diversified investment firm concentrating in the fields of real estate, middle-market private equity and late stage venture capital. Omninet’s principals were instrumental in the creation of Qualcomm, a leader in wireless communications, providing the foundation for the firm’s proactive investment management style. Neil Kadisha currently serves as Managing Partner of Omninet Capital, LLC. For more information, please visit www.omninet.com.

###
Contact Information
Mary Vanzo
Omninet Capital, LLC
310-300-4100

Online Web 2.0 Version
You can read the online version of this press release here.