Swany’s Walkin’Bag Introduces New Line of Ladies Go Bags, A Purse-on-Wheels That Takes the Strain Out of Everyday Life, Provides as Much Support as a Walker or Cane

Walkin’Bag introduced its latest line of the Walkin’Bag: Ladies Go Bag. CEO Etsuo Miyoshi, a polio survivor, invented the Walkin’Bag in 1996 to meet his personal needs. With the bag’s "lean-on" capability and four swivel-glide wheels, Miyoshi could travel comfortably around the globe without need of a walker or cane. Their versatility, stability and convenience will appeal to women from all walks of life.

Support
Walkin’Bag’s Go Bags will carry users and their belongings comfortably through the day without taking a toll on their bodies. Weighing less than 5 pounds, each bag will carry up to 33 pounds. They literally take the stress and weight off the user’s neck, shoulders and back. Thanks to the four, 360-degree swivel-glide wheels, users will look and feel great as this sleek tote rolls along effortlessly beside them.

Style
These innovative Go Bags are made of textured, synthetic leather, with careful attention to detail, including fashionable stitching and simulated-leather cover pulls. Available in polished black, bronze and gold, the bags come in 17” and 15” sizes. Bags detach easily from the frame to change instantly into a chic handbag. In addition, the patented, curved, lean-on handle is always there for steady support. This sturdy handle is adjustable to several heights and provides support and balance for up to 250 pounds.

Convenience
The handle and four spinner wheels make maneuvering through narrow areas, such as store aisles, parking-lot rows, restrooms and restaurant tables, trouble-free and effortless. The handle collapses to match the size of the bag, enabling it to fit easily and comfortably on a lap, the car floor, or under a bus, airplane or restaurant seat. Well-suited for clothes, shoes, jewelry, camera equipment, toiletries or hobby items, these attractive bags make a great carry-all piece. They may be used as an everyday purse, shopping or tote bag, briefcase, a stylish substitute for a walker or cane, or an eye-catching travel bag.

About Walkin’Bag
Walkin’Bag, a division of Swany America Corporation, began in 1996 when Swany Japan CEO Etsuo Miyoshi, a polio survivor and busy business traveler, invented a bag to meet his personal needs. With the bag’s "lean-on" capability, four swivel-glide wheels and built-in seat (see other luggage lines), Miyoshi could travel comfortably around the globe without need of a walker or cane. Although it was invented to meet Miyoshi’s personal needs, Walkin’Bag has now become a visible and competitive high-quality manufacturer of travel bags.
