Published jointly by the United Network for Organ Sharing (UNOS) and the Nicholas Green Foundation, the book tells the poignant stories of dozens who have received life-saving organ and tissue transplants.

Bloomington, Ind. (PRWEB) May 6, 2008 -- AuthorHouse, the leading provider of self-publishing and marketing services for authors around the globe, has announced its five top-selling books for April.

"The Gift that Heals," by Reg Green topped the list for the fourth consecutive month. Published jointly by the United Network for Organ Sharing (UNOS) and the Nicholas Green Foundation, the book tells the poignant stories of dozens who have received life-saving organ and tissue transplants.

The five top-selling AuthorHouse titles for April 2008:

1. "The Gift that Heals" by Reg Green
A collection of inspirational stories from families who've made the difficult decision to donate the organs and tissues of a deceased loved one; and firsthand accounts from those whose lives have been changed by these precious gifts.

2. "Perfect" by PC McCullough
Set in contemporary Connecticut, this novel is a story about love, loss, passion, doubt, growth and pleasure - all presented with a flair that will draw the reader in and hold their interest throughout.

Liability exposure has been a major issue for healthcare and insurance professionals for years. This guide provides new solutions to an old problem.

4. "Games2Careers: Career Success is Child's Play" by Susan H. Gubing and Karen McKenna
Choosing a career is one of life's most important decisions. "Games2Careers" removes the mystery of the process and provides 'the rules of the game.'

5. "Negro Slavery, Slave Society and Slave Life in Dutch West Indies" by Eddie Donoghue
A Collection of newspaper articles on slave society and slave life in the Danish West Indies.
